Troy joined Commercial Properties Inc. as a Marketing and Research Assistant in 2008. Since that time Troy has been a driving force in changing the look and feel of CPI's marketing materials. Previously, Troy worked for 6 years in the Visual Communications department of an international point-of-sale corporation where he focused on graphic design and product launch marketing campaigns.

Troy's ability to create eye-catching and unique property brochures, postcards and other deliverables has made him a valuable asset to CPI's

Marketing team. After studying at Aims Community College he attended Design Element courses with Rockhurst University.

Outside of these endeavors, he enjoys writing, painting, and collecting music.

Troy and his wife live in Phoenix.
